Jacob Bromwell has the unique distinction of being the oldest housewares and kitchenware manufacturer in all of North America. And it's a simple fact that they hold this noble distinction of longevity because they are the best at what they do.

Family owned and operated since 1819, everything built into Jacob Bromwell products including steel, stainless steel, tin, aluminum, copper, wood, iron, and leather are all sourced domestically.

With Jacob Bromwell, you might pay a little more than for your normal, run-of-the-mill products that happen to be on the shelves of almost any retail chain, but the quality built into Jacob Bromwell products is well worth the extra cost. And I can honestly say that I speak these words from personal experience since I have ordered Jacob Bromwell products for myself. The quality is simply second to none.

My most recent purchase from Jacob Bromwell was World Famous Grater. It's made by red-blooded American workers and guaranteed to never rust. Many other graters imitate the original Bromwell design, but none are made as well and none have the history to back them up. See how it's made here at the exclusive Factory Tour

The faith of Jacob Bromwell in the creativity and productivity of American workers is evident in the fact that they have never outsourced production to lower-wage labor countries to reduce costs or compromise quality. Jacob Bromwell has come a long way since their humble beginnings in 1819. Today, Jacob Bromwell operates manufacturing facilities in Indiana and Vermont and their products are sold at select specialty retailers throughout North America, Australia, Asia, and even Europe.

The fact that Jacob Bromwell exports to other countries is evidence of the American attractiveness and excellence of their products, and helps reduce our country's trade deficit, adds to our nation's gross domestic product (GDP), and all the while brings profits back to reward American owners and workers in America to stimulate our economy here at home.

Jacob Bromwell is proud to stand behind the quality of their workmanship, craftsmanship, and materials in every single product they ship to their valued customers. Lifetime Guarantee covers every item for the life of the product, failure of workmanship and craftsmanship, failure of materials, and production defects.

Popular Internet food and drink destination Blue Kitchen had this to say about Jacob Bromwell: "When they opened their doors in Cincinnati in 1819, our nation's Constitution was a mere 30 years old. There weren't many repair shops to be had, so Jacob Bromwell had to make its goods to last. They still do—and they still guarantee them for life."

Jacob Bromwell's line of products is chock full of authentic All-American offerings. From their All-American Flour Sifter and Original Popcorn Popper to their Signature Chestnut Roaster and Texas Deep Fry Baskets

Using the same authentic materials since 1819, Jacob Bromwell products are made with All-American materials such as tin, stainless steel, aluminum, and copper, with the help of elbow grease and some pretty darned old machinery (which works just as well as the day it was built) By using these materials, Jacob Bromwell products remain 100% authentic from the day they were created. Sure, there are updated materials that could be used, but America's frontiersmen wouldn't have it any other way, and neither should you!
